Looking Forward 199

We wish to dedicate this Lion's Roar to:

Edward Traver

A teacher and friend who enlightened our intelligence with his marvelous Boni.
With love,
The Class of 1979

(P.S. What is the name of the dog on the RCA Record label?)

i look back at the past, hoping i can find it in my future.

but where has the past gone?

the
race,

the tackle of
life.

i wonder
how they can say
i have knowledge enough to move on, for i know nothing of the life i'm about to enter.

the silhouette has a mirror-like effect.

i really don't want to go forward.

i love the present

i have too many friends i don't want to leave, but now i realize . . .

that the building of my future is important,

that the future holds a promise for me.

i want to fulfill that promise, for now i hear the music which calls me to enter into the newness of life.

it's a time for building up and moving on.

EVETTA WILMOT

I want to look back yet they tell me that it is harder.

So relentlessly I take one last look and move on into my future;

for memories are so much alive,
they keep the days moving on . . .
